GENERAL INFORMATION

Tax Law

Planning Point

Farmers are classed into three categories:

- ❑ Full-time farmers
Full-time farmers are not subject to a limit on the amount of losses that are deductible.
  - ❑ Part-time farmers
Part-time farmers are restricted to the amount of loss that can be claimed. The maximum that may be claimed in one year is $17,500.
  - ❑ Hobby farmers
Hobby farmers cannot deduct any farming expenses as CRA views them as being entirely for personal benefit.
- You should try and establish your farm operation as full-time.
  - If possible, set your farm operation up as a partnership as each partner will be eligible for a maximum loss of $17,500.
  - To avoid begin classified as a hobby farm, ensure you have documentation supporting a reasonable expectation of profit and never claim your farm is a hobby.
  - You may want to consider making a lump-sum instalment before April 30 to cover the estimated taxes owing if you cannot file your return by that date.
- ❑ If you or your spouse are self-employed, you have a June 15 deadline for your personal income tax returns. However, any taxes owing are still due on April 30 and CRA will charge interest for unpaid taxes beginning April 30.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ A partnership must file a partnership return if:
    - It has more than $5 million in assets OR revenues plus expenses greater than $2 million
    - It is a tiered partnership
    - It has a corporation or trust as a partner
    - It is invested in flow-through shares; or
    - The Minister of National Revenue requests a return in writing.

  - ❑ If you had a profit from your farm last year and had to pay taxes at the end of the year, CRA will likely require that you make instalment payments for this year.

  - ❑ Farmers who are GST registered can claim back GST paid on purchases as Input Tax Credits (ITCs).

  - ❑ Taxpayers with annual gross revenue less than $30,000 are not required to register for GST.
- T5013s must be filed by March 31st each year. Farm partnerships made up of only individuals do not need to file a T5013 return. But you may want to consider filing a T5013 Partnership Return even if not required to do so to ensure that your T5013 is statute-barred.

Please note, the assets are calculated as the cost of all assets both tangible and intangible excluding any depreciation. If you think that this may apply to you, please contact our office.

  - Individual farmers are allowed to make one annual instalment due on December 31. Farm Corporations are required to make quarterly or monthly instalments.

  - Be sure your record-keeping system captures all the GST paid on expenses. There are some sales items that GST must be charged on by farmers. For example, farmers must charge GST on the sale of equipment, sale of land used in farming, leasing land, contract work, selling horses and selling hay for horse consumption.

  - Consider registering voluntarily, as you will not charge GST on most farming income, but then you could recover the GST paid on your purchases.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ Farmers who own/lease or operate a farm on land classified as farm under the BC Assessment Act or on land outside of BC qualified for agriculture use under the Assessment Act may purchase certain items exempt of PST.
- To substantiate an exemption from PST on specified goods used for a farm purpose, you will be required to provide either your Farmer Identity Card issued by the BC Agriculture Council or a completed declaration form to the seller. Forms can be found at:
<https://www2.gov.bc.ca/gov/content/taxes/sales-taxes/pst/forms>.
- ❑ Properties with farm status have lower rates of municipal taxes and property insurance. The BC Assessment Authority determines your status.
- It is preferable to have your property assessed as farm. Farm property taxes are considerably lower than residential.
- ❑ There is a farm class for retired farmers under BC Assessment.
- Provided you meet all the criteria, your property may still qualify as farm property without having the prescribed amount of sales.
- ❑ Easement sales may qualify for the capital gains deduction. Agricultural land reserves (ALR) swaps and the first-year changes on surface leases may also qualify for the capital gains deduction.
- If possible, consider using the adjusted cost base adjustment instead of using the capital gains deduction.
- ❑ Partnerships provide a lot of flexibility with respect to future tax planning and the ability to access the lifetime capital gains exemption (LCGE). However, there are very complex tax rules that can apply. Joint ventures may offer high income farms the possibility of increasing the amount of income that is taxed at low rates.
- In situations where you are adding a new partner, removing an old partner, moving a partnership into a company, or dealing with a partner, you should always consult with a knowledgeable tax advisor.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ Siblings may break the ownership line criteria for the LCGE. ➤ Take this into consideration when structuring farm ownership and succession.
- ❑ You can earn up to $5,000 of self-employment income before it affects your Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS). ➤ Consider managing your farming activities to leave you with $5,000 in self-employment earnings annually.
- ❑ A farmer can use deductions such as capital cost allowance (CCA) for GIS purposes. ➤ You should deduct CCA for GIS purposes but not for income tax purposes. This way you do not waste personal exemptions.
- ❑ There are income tax issues if life insurance policies are not properly structured. ➤ Ensure the payor and the holder of the life insurance policy is the same or there will be taxable benefit issues.
- ❑ Farmers can earn carbon credit by adopting practices that reduce emissions, such as no tilling and direct seeding. ➤ Carbon credits can be bought and sold on an open market, which will be taxed as income to the farm.
- ❑ Older agricultural wells, as well as new wells, must be registered with the BC Government. ➤ To protect “first in use, first in right”, these wells must be registered. If you are an existing unregistered non-domestic groundwater user, you should register as soon as possible.
- ❑ If you reside on ALR land and you are intending to sell your property you may be eligible for homesite severance. In order to qualify, you must have owned and occupied the property since December 21, 1972, and you must have a legitimate intention to sell the remaining portion of the property. ➤ Homesite severance allows you to remain in the home and sell off the remainder of the property.

Tax Law

- ❑ Certain farmers who sell at least 15% of their breeding herd due to drought or flooding can choose to defer 30% of the sales proceeds to the following year. If you sell 30% or more of your breeding herd, you can defer 90% of the sales proceeds.

Planning Point

- This only applies for farmers in prescribed drought or flood regions. If you think this may apply to you, you can find if you are located in a prescribed region at:
<https://agriculture.canada.ca/en/agricultural-production/weather/livestock-tax-deferral-provision/2025-livestock-tax-deferral-prescribed-regions>

DEDUCTIBLE EXPENDITURES

Tax Law

- ❑ Farmers may report income on either a cash or accrual basis.
- ❑ Any expenses relating to the farm are deductible, including:
  - livestock purchases
  - containers and twine
  - fertilizer and pesticides
  - seeds and feed
  - property, equipment, and crop insurance
  - custom contractor fees
  - machinery rentals
  - utilities
  - office and supplies
  - professional fees
  - rent and property taxes
  - wages
  - motor vehicle expenses
  - veterinary and breeding fees
  - machinery, fence and building repairs
  - fuel
  - licenses
  - small tools

Planning Point

- Consider using the cash basis for your farm operation, as it often allows for substantial tax deferral.
- Cash basis farmers should consider purchasing supplies at year-end to increase expenses for the year if a farming profit was generated in the year.

Payments by credit card are considered paid for purposes of the cash basis. A note payable issued to a supplier may also be considered paid.

The purchase of additional livestock will be beneficial if in a profit position but will not be permitted as an expense if doing so will create a farm loss. Leasing cattle can sometimes avoid the application of these loss prevention rules.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ The portion of expenses that relate to personal use (i.e. slaughtering a cow for the freezer or using hay for your hobby horses) is not deductible by the farm.
  - ❑ 50% of business meals and entertainment expenses are deductible.
  - ❑ A portion of home office expenses such as rent, mortgage interest, property taxes, utilities, telephone, minor repairs, and home insurance are deductible. In-home office expenses cannot be used to increase a loss but can be carried forward indefinitely and used in a year when the farm has a profit.
  - ❑ Expenses incurred for clearing, leveling, and draining land are 100% deductible.
  - ❑ If you use your life insurance policy as collateral for a loan related to your farm, you may be able to deduct a portion of the premiums paid.
  - ❑ Interest on money borrowed to earn farming income is deductible. The purpose of a loan is what determines whether a loan is deductible.
- When you personally consume farm inventory, you should increase the reported income to include what the farm would have received had these items been sold to someone else.
  - Keep good records to support your claim, including who you met with and for what purpose.
  - Finding cost savings on other farm expenses may allow you to deduct all your home office expenses.
  - Closely evaluate your farm costs to identify anything that would qualify as land leveling or clearing. You do not have to deduct all the costs for clearing land in the year they were paid. You should carry forward any or a part of the costs to a year you are taxable.
  - When arranging financing, ask the bank for a letter saying that you need life insurance to ensure the payments are deductible.
  - Always structure loans to be for a business purpose, which makes them deductible. If required, personal assets can still secure the loan.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ CRA has stated that payments of mixed debt must be split pro-rata based on the personal and business percentages.
  - ❑ Leasing equipment is an alternative to purchasing, and the lease payments are 100% deductible. There are limits to deducting lease costs for passenger vehicles.
  - ❑ A farm may be able to pay its workers as subcontractors, saving the cost of CPP and EI remittances.
  - ❑ Cash basis farmers that report a net loss are required to decrease their loss based on the amount of purchased inventory (livestock, fertilizer, chemicals, feed, seed, fuel, etc.) that is on hand at the end of the year. This mandatory inventory adjustment (MIA) will be deductible in the next year.
  - ❑ Leased cattle are not subject to the MIA.
- You might consider splitting your financing into two separate loans (business vs. personal) and pay down the personal loan first.
  - Ensure it says “lease” if you want lease treatment. It can be structured just like a loan with a $1 buyout and still qualify. If you buy out the lease then sell the equipment for a profit it may be classified as business income, not capital gains. Watch out for what the lease rates are. They are often higher than financing costs.
  - There are specific criteria to determine if a worker is a subcontractor or an employee. Ultimately, the risk of any additional tax liability resulting from an incorrect assessment falls on you, so be sure before you start.
  - You are only required to include 70% of the cost of specified animals (animals registered under the Animal Pedigree Act). All horses are considered specified animals.
  - You should consider this as an option if you wish to create a farm loss.

Tax Law

- ❑ Cash basis farmers have the option of reporting additional income up to the fair market value of the inventory on hand at the end of the year. This is called an optional inventory adjustment (OIA) and is deductible in the next year.

- ❑ CRA gives tax credits for legitimate research under the Scientific Research and Experimental Development Program. It is designed to help small businesses do research to improve their products. Farmers who qualify for the program can get a 100% tax deduction for the money spent on research and refundable credits.

Planning Point

- In many cases, it is beneficial to have a moderate amount of profit generated by the farm. For example:
  - to utilize non-refundable tax credits, which would otherwise expire.
  - to have earned income for calculation of your Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) contribution limit.
  - to help designate the farm as qualified farm property, which is eligible for the $1,250,000 LCGE.
  - to average taxes over multiple low profit years at low marginal rates as compared with no tax in certain years and very high-rate tax in years when the farm does well.

- Test plots and machinery experiments could qualify for this tax break. Check if contributions used for research and development are also eligible for the refundable tax credits. Any expenditures that result in a technological advance qualify.

Tax Law

- ❑ The federal personal exemption for 2026 is $16,452 (BC - $13,216), under which no income tax is paid on earnings.
- ❑ Farmers and farming corporations who donate agricultural product to a registered charity may be eligible for a 25% provincial tax credit.

Planning Point

- Pay wages to family members (especially children) that are reasonable for work performed to take advantage of these tax-free limits. The children can then contribute to an RRSP or Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP) with the funds. Ensure your children file a tax return to maximize their RRSP room for future use and to claim the Canada Workers Benefit (CWB) tax credit.
- Donations are less tax efficient when made by a corporation. If you make donations, you should do so personally.

USING A VEHICLE FOR FARMING

Tax Law

- ❑ Expenses relating to a vehicle used for farm purposes are deductible based on the percentage of kilometers driven for business purposes, which must be supported by a travel log. CRA auditors have stated that if a log is not available, they consider the vehicle to be 100% for personal use, and no deductions are available.
- ❑ Employers are permitted to deduct a traveling allowance paid to employees for vehicle use, which is non-taxable to the employees. For 2026, the rate in B.C. is $0.73/km for the first 5,000 kilometers and $0.67/km thereafter.

Planning Point

- Allowable expenses include fuel, repairs, insurance, loan interest, lease payments, and depreciation. Receipts must be kept supporting these amounts. If you are audited and do not have a log, you may be able to prepare a log after the fact based on timesheets, appointment books, or other means, and appeal the reassessment.
- If actual vehicle expenses (insurance, repairs, fuel, loan interest, etc.) exceed this rate, actual costs can be claimed. However, receipts and a mileage log must be maintained to support the claim.

Tax Law

- ❑ If an employee uses a farm vehicle for personal use, the employer is required to calculate an operating benefit and a standby charge based on the number of personal kilometers and include these amounts on the employee’s T4. For 2026, the operating benefit rate is $0.34/km. The standby charge is 2/3 of the annual lease cost or 24% of the original cost.

- ❑ A vehicle defined as a passenger vehicle by CRA has special rules that reduce the allowable deductions for depreciation, lease costs, recapture, and interest. For 2026, the maximum cost for depreciation is $39,000 (before GST and PST), the maximum lease cost is $1,100/month, and the maximum interest is $350/month. If not determined to be a passenger vehicle, the full expenses are deductible.

Planning Point

- The standby charge is reduced if personal use is less than 50% and less than 20,004 km/year in total. Because the standby charge is so onerous, a vehicle should generally only be owned by a business if it is used more than 90% for business use and personal use will be less than 1,000 km/month.

- A vehicle is not a passenger vehicle if one of the following applies:
  - It is a van, pick-up truck or similar vehicle that seats 3 or fewer people and is used more than 50% to transport goods or equipment in the course of producing income; or
  - It is a van, pick-up truck or similar vehicle that is used more than 90% for the transport of goods, equipment, or passengers in the course of producing income.

These tests only apply in the year of acquisition. Acquire new vehicles just prior to the end of the year and ensure they meet the test for this short period. There are special rules for the disposition of a passenger vehicle.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ There are accelerated tax deductions available for the purchase of zero-emission vehicles purchased on or after March 19, 2019, and made available for use before 2028. The classes allow enhanced deductions in the year of purchase. The deduction is 75% of cost for 2024-2025 and 55% for 2026-2027. The write-off of zero-emission passenger vehicles is subject to a cap of $61,000 (before GST and PST).
- Consider taking advantage of the increased tax write-offs for zero emission vehicles.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ CRA allows farms to deduct an amount for the depreciation of equipment used in the farm, referred to as the capital cost allowance (CCA). The amounts for different types of equipment are set by CRA, although only ½ of the annual amount is permitted in the year of acquisition.
- It may be beneficial to make capital purchases close to the end of the year, so you get a half-year claim when it was only owned for a few days. Also, it may be beneficial to wait until the beginning of a new year to dispose of equipment as there is no CCA claim in the year of sale.
- ❑ For assets purchased that became available for use between 2024 and 2027, you can claim 2 times the normal first-year CCA. Effectively, this suspends the half-year rule during this period. This does not apply to assets purchased from a non-arm's length party or assets transferred through a rollover.
- Be sure to take advantage of these accelerated rates if capital additions are required.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ If an asset has had too much CCA claimed on it over the years, the tax value will be lower than the fair market value. When sold, such an asset will result in an income inclusion called recapture.
- You may elect to transfer assets from classes 2-12 to class 1 to defer the recapture of CCA when you sell assets. The purchaser, including children, can put the purchase into normal classes.
- ❑ Tools with a cost less than $500 are considered Class 12 additions for tax purposes and are fully deductible in the year of purchase.
- It is important to ensure these are appropriately recorded, as the alternative is Class 8, which is a deduction at 20% per year.
- ❑ Certain manufacturing assets and technological equipment can be put into a separate class when acquired so that when disposed, a tax savings can be realized if the selling price is lower than the tax value.
- Dairy farms may be considered manufacturers. Consider putting these assets into these special classes.
- ❑ Trucks purchased that are used to haul freight with GVW of larger than 11,788 kg are included in Class 16.
- The rate of depreciation for Class 16 is 40%. Evaluate if your truck should be recorded in Class 16 instead of Class 10, which is only depreciated at 30%.
- ❑ Construction costs for a paved road are a capital asset added to Class 17. The costs for unpaved roads are deductible expenses.
- Consider leaving the roads built on the farm unpaved, as the cost of building them is fully deductible.
- ❑ For buildings acquired on or after November 4, 2025, that use 90% or more of their floor space for manufacturing and processing, you can deduct 100% of the cost on your tax return. The building must be in use before 2030. For such buildings first in use in 2030 or 2031, a 75% deduction is allowed. For such buildings first in use in 2032 or 2033, a 55% deduction is allowed.
- Ensure manufacturing and processing machinery and equipment is included in the appropriate CCA class to take advantage of this increased deduction. There are enhanced CCA claims for clean energy generators and electrical generators from waste heat.

FARMING IN A CORPORATION

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ The main reasons to incorporate a farm are as follows:
    - Lower tax rates
    - Separate legal entity
    - Ability to plan and control personal income
  - ❑ When incorporating, cash basis accounts receivable cannot be rolled in tax-free.
  - ❑ A corporation does not qualify for the principal residence exemption or the provincial home owner grant.
  - ❑ Corporate losses cannot be transferred to an individual.
- Each of these reasons must be examined in relation to your current situation and your expectations for the future. There are additional costs to having an incorporated farm, so it is important to ensure the benefits will outweigh this cost.
  - Consider purchasing cattle inventory in the proprietorship/partnership to reduce the impact of these accounts receivable. The inventory can be rolled to the company and the income for the sale of the inventory will be used to offset the deduction from the accounts receivable.
  - You should attempt, by trust declaration, to transfer the house and 1 acre into your own name. Then, by registering a 1/1000 interest ownership of the property or a life-estate jointly into you and your spouse’s names you can claim the principal residence exemption and can also claim the provincial home owners grant. Take caution with such an arrangement, as you could be required to file a bare trust return.
  - When starting a farm, if you are expecting start-up losses, operate as a proprietorship or partnership. These start-up losses can be used against other income and can even be carried back to prior years.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ The corporate tax rate is 11% on the first $500,000 of active income as compared with up to 54% when taxed personally.
- If you can leave excess cash in a company, there will be significantly more after-tax dollars to invest or make the farm grow faster and pay down debt.
- ❑ The small business deduction is reduced when investment income in a group of associated small corporations exceeds $50,000.
- For every $1 of investment income that exceeds $50,000, the small business deduction is reduced by $5 in the subsequent year. Once investment income exceeds $150,000, the small business deduction is eliminated.
- ❑ For a private corporation, Refundable Dividend Tax on Hand (RDTOH) is usually only refunded in cases where a private corporation pays an ineligible dividend.
- There is an exception to this rule when RDTOH is created by receiving eligible dividends or by earning active income exceeding the small business deduction limit. The resulting Eligible RDTOH can be refunded by issuing eligible dividends.
- ❑ Budget 2025 proposes to defer the issuance of dividend refunds of RDTOH in cases where a corporation pays another corporation a dividend, but their year-ends don't align.
- If the recipient pays a dividend to an individual prior to the payer's balance due date, the refund won't be deferred.
- ❑ Eligible dividends are taxed at a significantly lower tax rate than regular dividends.
- If your company has active income in excess of the $500,000 small business limit, you should review whether paying eligible dividends is more tax advantageous than management bonuses.

Tax Law

- ❑ You can decide which classes of shares to pay dividends to.

- ❑ When you receive dividends or certain other income from a private corporation, tax on split income (TOSI) may apply if you are under 18 or the return is not reasonable in relation to your contributions to the corporation. TOSI increases the recipient’s tax rate to 53.5% on the income.

- ❑ A dividend that has been declared, but not yet paid is reported on a separate tax return when you pass away and results in the ability to get nearly tax-free money to your estate.

Planning Point

- When setting up your company, be sure and give both spouses different classes of shares as it provides more options for remuneration. Joint ownership of shares with a spouse should be considered to avoid possible probate if one of the spouses dies. This may reduce the ability to dividend sprinkle.

- Avoid paying dividends to someone under 18. For dividend recipients over 18, they are exempt from TOSI if they have worked for the farm an average of 20 hours per week in the current year or in 5 previous years.

- If you are elderly or of ill health, consider declaring a dividend in your company, but not paying it to minimize some estate taxes.

SELLING A FARM & TRANSFERS TO CHILDREN

Tax Law

- ❑ The lifetime capital gains exemption (LCGE) is available up to $1,250,000 (projected to increase to $1,275,000 in 2026) for the disposition of qualified farm/fishing property and shares of a family farming/fishing corporation.

Planning Point

- Structure your affairs to ensure you and as many family members as possible qualify for this deduction.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ It is possible for the sale of a farm (or quota) to be tax-free if your farm qualifies for the $1,250,000 LCGE.
  - ❑ If you acquired the property after 1987, you must meet a 2-year gross revenue test to determine if farm property qualifies for the LCGE. This test requires that your gross revenues from farming exceed all other sources of income.
  - ❑ If you received your property from your parents (not siblings), you may be able to fall back on your parents’ farming history to see if the farm still qualifies for the LCGE.
  - ❑ If you owned a farm prior to 1987, but claimed the 1994 capital gains election, you are considered to have re-purchased the property after 1987 and now must meet the gross revenue test.
  - ❑ The sale of timber from qualified farm property may qualify for the LCGE. Gravel sales follow the same treatment.
- There are specific rules that determine if your property qualifies based on the use of the property and the length of ownership. You should always look at this option as it can save up to $341,063 in taxes per owner.
  - If you operate your farm as a partnership, you are not required to meet this test. The land need not be registered in the name of the partnership if the farmer has been reporting as a farm partnership on their tax returns.
  - You should always consider the history of a property when family is involved. Old tax returns can help support such a claim. Affidavits from neighbors, family pictures and old dairy or apple co-op records are all good evidence.
  - You can still look to your farming operation pre-1994 to determine if you meet the gross revenue test. Again, this should be supported by tax returns.
  - A tax court case involving the sale of timber from qualified farm property was found in favor of the farmer. If you are planning to sell timber, try to structure the agreement for sale to be similar with this case. If you have paid tax on timber sold from farmland, you should file an amendment as soon as possible.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ The CRA views sharecropping as rental activity, not active farming. As such, it may taint your ability to meet the requirements for the LCGE.
  - ❑ An interest in a farm partnership also qualifies for the $1,250,000 LCGE.
  - ❑ A company is not eligible for the LCGE when selling assets. Therefore, you should encourage the buyer to purchase shares in order to utilize your LCGE.
  - ❑ When reporting a sale using the LCGE, you will still have a very high net income despite not having to pay much tax. This may affect your ability to claim social benefits such as child tax, Old Age Security (OAS), and the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS).
- Structure your situation as a custom farming arrangement or farming joint venture agreement, where you are a farmer and the other individual is doing work on the farm for you.
  - If possible, always try to structure your farm as a partnership as it provides a significant amount of flexibility that results in tax savings. Also, a new partner does not need to hold their partnership interest for 2 years in order to claim the LCGE. A family member can transfer assets to an existing family farm partnership and then immediately afterwards use the capital gains deduction on the sale of the partnership interest.
  - Consider selling at a lower price to ensure that the purchaser acquires the shares. The tax savings could more than offset the reduction in direct proceeds.
  - There may be ways to spread out a sale over multiple years to have the same tax result but allow you to continue to claim these social benefits. These options are only available if drawn-up as part of the sale agreement, so you should seek professional advice as soon as you think you might want to sell.

Tax Law

- ❑ Although the LCGE may reduce your taxes calculated under the normal method to nil, the alternative minimum tax (AMT) rules may still apply that will have you paying some tax.

AMT is applicable to certain income over the basic exemption ($177,882 for 2025) at a rate of 20.5%. A percentage of capital gains and other amounts are included in taxable income for AMT purposes.

- ❑ If you sell your farm, but do not receive all the money immediately, you do not have to pay the full amount of taxes. A reserve can be claimed based on the pro-rata portion of money received, with a minimum of 20% of the gain being reported in any year. This reserve is not available where a gain is recognized on the transfer to a controlled company.
- ❑ If you sell farm property and replace it with a similar farm property, the tax on the initial sale can be deferred until the new property is sold. In some cases, properties purchased prior to the disposition of the farm property can be considered replacement properties.

Planning Point

- AMT is essentially a prepayment of tax for the next 7 years. If you have taxable income in those years, you may be able to offset the tax with the AMT that was incurred in a prior year. AMT should always be considered when evaluating the options of a farm sale as it can potentially be reduced or eliminated.
- If you sell to a related party (i.e. a child) you only have to report 10% of the gain in any year. You will need to determine whether it is more advantageous to claim the income all in one year or over multiple years.
- It is preferable to have properties classified as farm properties instead of rental properties to ensure they qualify for the replacement property rules.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ CRA provides for a taxpayer to sell their home on a tax-free basis using the principal residence exemption. The principal residence exemption is generally limited to the home and the ½ hectare (1.24 acres) it is situated on, although recent tax court decisions have allowed significantly more than this.
  - ❑ If you sell your principal residence during the year, you must report this on your personal tax return, even though there are no tax consequences.
  - ❑ You can transfer qualified farm property at its tax cost to children during your lifetime or at your death.
  - ❑ It is possible for woodlots to transfer tax-free to the next generation. Woodlots, whose marketable product can only be created at a time period beyond the taxpayer’s life expectancy may have reasonable expectations of profit problems.
  - ❑ CRA has special rules when you are selling your farm to your children. You may be able to transfer the farm at a value between what you paid for it and what it is worth today, making the transaction non-taxable.
- The principal residence exemption and LCGE can both be claimed on a single property. You should always claim the maximum amount for the principal residence exemption, thereby saving the LCGE for future sales.
  - Make sure to notify whoever is preparing your tax return of the sale of a principal residence so it can be recorded correctly.
  - The child acquires the farm property at the same tax value as the parents. When a parent’s child dies, this rollover is NOT available to the child’s spouse.
  - Ensure that the transferor or a family member is actively involved as required by a prescribed forest management plan. This is a requirement for the tax-free inter-generational rollover.
  - This provides a lot of tax planning flexibility. You are also able to claim the principal residence exemption, the LCGE and the capital gains reserve on such transactions. Any consideration paid by the children may affect the elected value. Also, the children must own the farm property for 3 years before selling; otherwise, the parents will have to pay the tax on the gain.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ Once a farm has been transferred to a child, the child faces all the same rules and tax options available to the parents. However, there are some holding period tests to be met to ensure the various exemptions will still apply.
  - ❑ If you want to transfer your farm to your child, but do not necessarily want to give them full control of the farm at this time, a family trust may be used.
  - ❑ Inventory, when transferred to a child, is done so at its fair market value and will likely result in tax. However, if you incorporate a company, the inventory can be transferred on a tax-free basis.
  - ❑ Leasing cattle to a child is an alternative to a rollover of the cattle at their fair market value.
  - ❑ Land ownership can be separated from the right to use the land, by use of a rental or lease agreement.
- Transfer to children well before (3 years) of an ultimate sale if you are intending to sell a farm outside of the family group. If done properly this can multiply the capital gains election.
  - All of the above considerations continue to be available, plus you get the benefit of maintaining control of the underlying assets. However, this does come with the additional cost to setup and maintain the trust once established.
  - You should consider transferring the inventory through your will, so the tax is deferred until it is actually sold. The inventory included in income the previous year will be expensed the next.
  - Make sure the lease gives your child the option to purchase a percentage of the herd (and you receive an annual payment) so that CRA will not view the lease as a complete sale and tax you on it.
  - Consider this strategy to help make the allocation of farm amounts more equitable amongst farm children and non-farm children.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- There are a number of considerations when transferring a farm to a successive generation. Most importantly, these include:
    - How to fund retirement cash needs
    - How to deal with non-farm children and the Wills Variation Act
    - How to protect against future legal and matrimonial issues
    - How to avoid property transfer taxes
    - How to minimize the effect of AMT and social benefit clawbacks
    - How to ensure the liquidity and continuance of the farm.
    - BC Probate taxes

  - On death, most farm assets can transfer to children at any value between cost and fair market value. Quota owned in a proprietorship is an exception, which can only transfer at cost at the date of death.

  - When the owner of a farm property dies, they are subject to a deemed disposition of all assets immediately prior to death.
- This is not an exhaustive list of considerations, as each family and situation is different. Further, your answer to certain issues will negatively affect other issues. As a result, there is never a single right answer. Instead, you should involve your accountant, lawyer, banker and investment advisor from the beginning to navigate through all the considerations and to determine the course of action that best meets your objectives.

  - Given the lack of flexibility at death, it is generally preferable to own quota in a family farm partnership or a corporation.

  - Transfer property by bequeathing or gifting to defer any tax payable. Use as much of the deceased’s LCGE as possible. Ensure Registered Retirement Savings Plans (RRSPs) are left to spouse for tax-free rollover.

You may have tax free rollovers and LCGEs available on death. Additionally, you will be able to file a separate rights and things return. Be sure that your farm properties qualify for the rollovers.

Tax Law

Planning Point

- ❑ Probate applies on death when assets are held personally.
  - ❑ If there are 2 parcels of farmland jointly owned by 2 siblings (individuals), the land can be portioned so that only 1 name will remain on each property.
  - ❑ In certain circumstances, land inside of the Agricultural Land Reserve (ALR) can be traded for property outside of the ALR.
  - ❑ If you are selling land with standing timber, you may be subject to BC Logging Tax on the standing timber.
  - ❑ If you reside on ALR land and you are intending to sell your property, you may be eligible for homesite severance. In order to qualify, you must have owned and occupied the property since December 21, 1972, and you must have a legitimate intention to sell (or transfer to the next generation) the remaining portion of the property.
- Hold land and shares of companies in joint names with your spouse to avoid probate.
  - There are no tax consequences providing each parcel has the same value.
  - A developer may pay you to have your land designated as ALR land if it creates the opportunity to swap for land that could be subdivided and developed.
  - Unless you're selling the land for its timber, identify the value of standing timber at $0 in the sales agreement and insist that the purchaser does not deduct the value of standing timber on his/her tax return.
  - Homesite severance allows you to remain in the home and sell off the remainder of the property. It also provides one additional title of land which usually increases the value of the property and can be helpful for estate planning purposes.

GOVERNMENT PROGRAMS

Planning Point

- ❑ Agriculture Canada has many programs available to farmers including:
    - AgriInvest
    - AgriStability
    - AgriRecovery
    - AgriInsurance

  - ❑ To qualify for “Agri” programs, you must be registered and have paid your annual fee.
- AgriInvest is where the producer can contribute up to 100% of their allowable net sales once per year, and the government will match the first 1% of that amount. These types of accounts are used to help put money aside that would be used for small income shortfalls.

  - AgriStability is where a producer pays a fee to receive insurance backed by the government. The program offers assistance once a producer’s margin falls below 90% (for 2025 only, 80% otherwise) of their historical reference margin. Farmers can enroll late without penalty until April 30.

  - AgriRecovery is a disaster relief framework for governments to provide special one-time relief not covered by the other “Agri” options.

  - AgriInsurance is an aggregation of all existing production insurance for particular industries.

  - Consider registering for as many government programs as possible as they are only available to participants.

    - ❑ Business Planning, Preparedness, and Disaster Recovery to increase adoption of best business management practices, support growth and sustainability, support comprehensive risk assessment plans and emergency preparedness, and support disaster recovery plans.
  - ❑ The Environmental Farm Plan program provides significant funding for farmers.
  - ❑ The Western Livestock Price Insurance Program is designed to help cattle and hog producers in Western Canada manage price risks faced by the industry.
- To be eligible, the farm must have a minimum of $50,000 in annual gross farm income as reported to CRA.
  - For Agri-Business Skills and Leadership Development, you can receive reimbursement for 70% of eligible costs, up to $2,000.
  - For Business Planning, Preparedness, and Disaster Recovery, an individual can receive a reimbursement of eligible costs up to $7,500 and a group can receive a reimbursement up to $22,500 for business planning services from a Qualified Business Consultant (QBC). We have 2 such QBCs in our office.
  - The government has funding available to assist with the purchase of equipment that helps to mitigate risks for environmental issues.
